one of the most brilliant and successful

"openings" ever seen in Omaha was that of the 99c store, H. Hardy & Co., on last Friday evening. This enterprising house is easily in advance of any other west of Chicago in its line, and the display at the opening led the visitors to believe that there could certainly be nothing in dolls, toys, fancy goods and holiday specialties that was not in the stock of the 99c The hundreds of visitors were unstinting in their commendations of the elegant exhibit, and the children especially were exuberant in their ex-clamations of delight at the many things peculiarly attractive to them. Claus was present in all his glory, and the kindly old king of the juvenile heart was followed about as he led the way from one attractive exhibit to anothe by a band of enthusiastic children who abundantly assured him of their love and loyalty. And what did he show them? A brilliant display of an almost endiess variety of toys -a depart-ment which is a veritable museum of curiosities, embracing everything that the genius of invention has brought out for the amusement of the children. The mechanical and steam toys were particularly attractive and elicited the most vociferous exclamations of delight from the little ones. While Santa Clause was escorting the juveniles through the crowded and beautifully arranged departments allotted to them, the older visitors were finding gratification in an inspection of the superb stocks in which there are hundreds of appropriate gifts for gentlemen. young and old, unique and desirable presents for ladies of all ages, and many articles useful and beautiful, which are always in demand. Messrs. H. Hardy & Co. are to be congratulated upon the splendid success of their efforts to meet every demand in their department of trade, and the large business they are doing attests that the public appreciates their enterprise. Their store is one of the most attractive in the city, a veritable bazaar in which will be found overything that is new and rich and desirable in their branch of business, Santa Claus has been engaged for the season at the 99c store, and he will make periodical ap-pearances from now until Christmas. He invites the children to call on him again next Tuesday evening, and to the public generally a cordial invitation is extended to inspect at any time the large and beautiful stock of the 99c store, 1819 Farnam street.

The Successors to F. C. Festner Now

Ready for Business.

November 1 of this year the Festner estate sold the F. C. Festner job printing and book binding establishment to the Festner Printing Co. who will carry on the business in equally as good manner as formerly. The new company consists of Julius T. Festner, who has been with the house since it was established in 1872. He is well known by every business man in Omaha and the west and it is greatly due to his rustling qualities that the business has attained the mammoth success it now enjoys. Mr. Festner is also president of the German Nebraska Daily Tribune. The second partner is August Droste, a practical bookbinder and blank book manufacturer who has had years of experience in his particular line. He is an old and respected resident of Omaha and has been with the house ten years. George chuck, the third partner, is the well known secretary and treasurer of The Bee Publishing Company, and needs no further introduction as to his sterling business qualities and sound judgement. The Festner Printing company do a general book, job, commercial, railroad and show printing business. They also do all kinds of printing in the German language, being the only house in the west who do work in German as well as En glish. Ten huge presses are kept constantly busy turning out the work done by this great house, which during the course of year amounts to many thousands of dol-They manufacture all kinds of blank books, ruled and printed to order, among which may be mentioned their specialt in an improved flat opening blank book which has been introduced here by them and gives universal satisfaction. A full line of ready made first class blank books of almost any design or kind are always carried in stock. They bind books and magazines in any style, either in morocco, sheep, calf or cloth at the most reasonable prices. The Festner Printing Company gives employment to fifty-six people, who are competent in every way, as the company will not have any but experienced help in their employ. The four floors of the building at 1307 and 1309 Howard street are pushed to their utmost capacity to give working room for this large institution. The success of the new firm promises to be greater than that of the W. R. Bennett Co., Omaha. Announces that their store will remain open until 9 o'clock evenings, from Monday, the 8th inst., until further no-tice. They have an immense and varied display of holiday goods and toys on their second floor, at bargain prices Their drug and prescription department is an unqualified success and as thoroughly appreciated by their customers.
